

A Review of Xylobiontic Flies of the Genera Neopachygaster Austen, Eupachygaster Kertész, and Pachygaster Meigen (Diptera, Stratiomyidae) from Russia and Neighboring Countries

N. P. Krivosheina

Severtsov Institute of Ecology and Evolution, Russian Academy of Sciences, Moscow, Russia

Received May 21, 2003

Abstract—A comparative morphological analysis of adult flies of 3 Palaearctic genera of the family Stratiomyidae has been performed. Several morphological structures not studied previously has been examined. The new species of the genera Neopachygaster Austen and Eupachygaster Kertész from Azerbaijan, and a new species and a new subspecies of the genus Pachygaster Meigen from the Caucasus are described.