

Synthesis of Potassium Sulfate by Conversion of Potassium Chloride and Magnesium Sulfate

I. I. Goncharik, V. V. Shevchuk, N. P. Krut'ko, A. D. Smychnik, and O. A. Kudina

*Institute of General and Inorganic Chemistry, National Academy of Sciences of Belarus, ul. Surganova 9, Minsk, 220072 Belarus
e-mail: igiclpns@rambler.ru*

Received December 29, 2014

Abstract—Possibility was studied of obtaining potassium sulfate by double-stage conversion of potassium chloride and magnesium sulfate, with schoenite formed in the first stage and then decomposed with water into potassium sulfate.

DOI: 10.1134/S1070427214120027